

SAYS BALTZELL IS TO BE APPOINTED

Press Dispatches From Washington
Today Assert That He Will Succeed Judge Anderson

JUDGE SPARKS CONSIDERED

Friends Feel He Could Have Been
Appointed if Senator Watson Had
Said The Word

Press association dispatches from Washington today say that Judge Robert C. Baltzell of Princeton, Ind., will be nominated by President Coolidge for federal judge in the Indiana district, to succeed Judge A. B. Anderson, who will be elevated to the United States circuit court of appeals at Chicago.

Elevation of Judge Anderson was decided upon six months ago, but President Coolidge deferred sending his nomination to the senate until his successor could be agreed upon.

Senator James E. Watson of this city, who was importuned to recommend Judge Will M. Sparks of this city for the federal judgeship, urged the nomination of Judge Baltzell, and the department of justice is reported to have been making an extended investigation of the Indiana situation.

It was intimated in Washington dispatches at one time that President Coolidge might disregard Senator Watson's recommendation and select another man for the place, but Senator Watson has been quoted as saying that Judge Baltzell would eventually be nominated by the president.

A story coming out of Washington a week ago asserted that Senator Watson was called to the department of justice and asked if he would withdraw his recommendation of Judge Baltzell, so that Judge Sparks could be nominated, but refused to do so because he was pledged for Baltzell.

Local friends of Judge Sparks have been using all the pressure they could to persuade Senator Watson, and finally Attorney General Stone and President Coolidge, that the Rushville jurist was the best in Indiana for the federal judgeship, but their efforts apparently have been in vain.

Other Indiana judges and attorneys have been under consideration, but there is a feeling here that Judge Sparks would have been appointed, if Senator Watson had said the word. The belief prevails here that Judge Sparks would have brought credit to Senator Watson for having nominated him.

JURY STANDS 6 TO 6, JUDGE IS INFORMED

Twelve Persons Who Will Decide
Fate of "Kid" McCoy Reported
to be Equally Divided

TO CONVENE AT 10 A. M. TODAY

By HAROLD E. SWISHER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 27—When the jury in the trial of "Kid" McCoy was locked up for the night shortly after 10 o'clock last night, they stood six to six, the foreman said in reply to a query by Judge Charles Crail.

Throughout the nine hours deliberation, in which sixty-six ballots were taken, rumors from the jury room said that majority was in favor of acquittal. One report had it that the balloting was 11 to 1 and that a woman juror stood between the former pugilist and freedom.

At 10 a. m. today, the jury will convene to continue their attempts to decide whether McCoy is guilty of the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mors, the last of his multitude of sweethearts.

Judge Crail ordered the jury escorted under guard to a downtown hotel, after a transcript of testimony given by Mrs. Jennie Thomas, McCoy's sister, was read on request. Before the grand jury which indicted her brother Mrs. Thomas testified she said, "I'm afraid I killed that woman" to her.

During the present trial, she said she could not remember this or any other. "I'm afraid I killed that woman" Mrs. Mors died.

COUZENS IS FOR

Michigan Senator Comes Out For Publication of Income Tax Return

Washington, Dec. 27—The movement for complete publicity of income tax returns was given great impetus today when Senator Couzens, Michigan, Republican, and chairman of the tax investigating committee announced himself in favor of complete publicity.

Couzens decried the statements of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, administration chieftains and big industrial leaders who claim that the publicity provision of the present tax law is hurting business and the government's revenues.

STAR MAIL ROUTE MAY BE STARTED

Advertisement for Carrier Between
Rushville and Mays Received at
Local Postoffice

TO REPLACE DUNREITH ROUTE

Mail Service at Mays Now Very Unsatisfactory and Patrons Petitioned for a Change

A star mail route between Mays and Rushville will be established February 1, 1925, if a satisfactory bid is received by the postoffice department, and the star route from Dunreith, which is now supplying the Mays postoffice, will be discontinued.

Postmaster A. L. Riggs has received an advertisement to receive bids to carry the mail between Mays and Rushville. The advertisement calls for two round trips daily, the distance between the two places being approximately eleven miles.

Bids will be received until January 6, and if a proposal to carry the mail for a reasonable sum is made, it is presumed here that the route will be established.

The star route carrier would not be required to make box collection or delivery and the proposed schedule is as follows:

Leave Mays daily except Sunday 6:45 a. m. and 4 p. m.; arrive at Rushville daily except Sunday 7:30 a. m. and 4:45 p. m.; leave Rushville daily except Sunday 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. and arrive at Mays at 8:45 a. m. and 5:45 p. m.

The present service is very unsatisfactory, as mail for the Mays postoffice and rural route arrives one or two days late most of the time. Mail from Rushville, for example, frequently is two days late and sometimes as much as three days late.

The mail is delivered at Dunreith by fast Pennsylvania trains that do not stop. Not infrequently a mail sack falls under the wheels and the mail is ground to pieces.

Dissatisfaction over the service has been growing for some time and a few weeks ago patrons of the Mays postoffice and rural route petitioned the postoffice department for a star route from Rushville. The advertisement for bids to carry the mail is the result.

"Unless the proposal to perform the service for a reasonable sum, accompanied by the required bond, properly executed, is received, the contract will not be awarded," says a letter of instructions from the fourth assistant postmaster general to Postmaster Riggs.

The bid is to be made with the intention of using a motor vehicle when the road and weather permits.

It is set forth that a postmaster, assistant postmaster, clerk of any person employed in the postal service, or the husband or wife of the postmaster or assistant postmaster or any of their immediate families shall not be permitted to become a mail contractor.

The term of the contract will be from February 1, 1925 to June 30, 1927.

Send Mercury Down

EXPECTED HERE BY TONIGHT

The mercury was mounting rapidly today and was expected to reach the highest point in the thermometer tube since Tuesday, but the more seasonable weather was not expected to last long because of the third cold wave of the week, which is due in this section again tonight.

Zero temperatures are predicted for the new period of cold weather, which will continue over Sunday.

The temperature did not get down to zero during the night, according to the government thermometer at Maunzy, Elwood Kirkwood, county weather observer, stated this morning that the lowest point reached during the night was five above zero. Wednesday night the mercury went ten below zero and Thursday night six below.

By eight o'clock this morning the temperature had risen to eleven above zero and was still going up. It was expected to go above the freezing point by this afternoon. The first evidence of thawing for several days was to be seen today.

By A. L. BRADFORD

Paris, Dec. 27—The conference of ambassadors, in session here today agreed not to evacuate Cologne.

The conference will send a collective note to Germany on the question. The ambassadors met at noon with M. Cambon of France presiding. Marshal Foch and a number of military experts were summoned. At the same time German Ambassador Von Hoess was received by Marshal Foch in his bed chamber where he is confined by illness.

The allied activity followed rapidly on receipt of news of discovery of huge illegal arms stores in Germany, which France claims is a direct violation of the disarmament provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

SNIDER IS BOUND OVER TO THE CIRCUIT COURT

Rushville Boy Held For Vehicle Taking
Must Wait Until January For
Arraignment

ADMITS RANSACKING HOME

Ocean Snider of this city, who is held in jail in Connersville, has pleaded not guilty to the charge of vehicle taking in police court and has been bound over to the Fayette circuit court for a further trial. He has been unable to provide bond.

The Fayette circuit court will not convene until the early part of January. Snider is wanted in Rushville on a charge of house breaking, having been identified as the person who was inside of the house when Clarence Walden went there a week ago this afternoon, and discovered that the home of Ray Waggener had been ransacked.

Snider, when arrested one night this week in Connersville, was standing beside a stolen machine belonging to a man by the name of Weaver, who lives at Bentonville. The car was taken from the streets in Cambridge City.

Snider did not give a good account of himself to the officers and he was jailed. He gave them the name of Walter Lucas of Chicago, and he is held in Connersville under that name.

NEW IMPETUS IS GIVEN DEATH PROBE

William D. Shepherd Due to Arrive
For Examination in "Millionaire
Orphan" Inquiry

MUST CLEAR UP SOME POINTS

State's Attorney Attaches Much Importance to Information Regarding
Foster Father

Chicago, Dec. 27—Arrival here today of William D. Shepherd will give new impetus to the investigation of the death of William McClintock, "millionaire orphan." Shepherd foster-father of McClintock, is due here before noon from Albuquerque, N. Mex., where he went on a visit with Mrs. Shepherd shortly after Billy died.

States Attorney Robert E. Crowe wants to question Shepherd on his visits to a medical laboratory here in 1919 and 1920 while bacteria cultures were being made.

Crowe attaches much importance to information on these visits, given by F. T. Breidigan, formerly of the Illinois Research Laboratory and now of the Battle Creek sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich.

While employed here, Breidigan said he was visited frequently in his laboratory by Shepherd, at times in the company of a physician and at other times alone.

"During the times that he came alone he engaged me in conversation and discussion of the general work in hand at the time," Breidigan's statement declares. He remained with me during these visits from one half hour to two hours. During these visits we discussed typhoid germs.

"He told me he was a registered pharmacist. My recollection is that while he was present in the laboratory we examined cultures and discussed infectious diseases, their causes and results. He stated he was familiar with chemistry and drugs and was a druggist.

"Whatever work I might have been engaged upon I would continue and Mr. Shepherd would stand beside and observe whatever I then might be doing and discuss it with me.

"He indicated an inclination toward scientific research and from his general attitude and questions, I gathered he was interested in clinical routine.

"During the time Mr. Shepherd was in the laboratory, I now recall I was examining blood-making Wasserman tests, taking blood counts, estimation of the number of blood cells, examination for tuberculosis and we would discuss how the above was being done and he would observe and watch my laboratory work in connection with the thing.

"I recall that I had in the laboratory a culture for the purpose of examining typhoid infection."

Shepherd notified his attorneys here that he visited the laboratory simply for the purpose of receiving expert attention for an infection.

Crowe continues to question various persons connected with the case, but so far "nothing of great importance has developed." The doctors who attended Billy said that death was caused by typhoid.

CHICKENS FROM HERE ACCEPTED

Car Load Shipped to New York by
Adams Produce Co., Passes Inspection and is Sold

AN EMBARGO IS IN EFFECT

Rushville Company Fortunate Because Many Chickens Are Killed Because of Disease

The embargo on shipping chickens to the eastern market is still in force, because of a disease that is killing thousands of chickens, and the Adams Produce Company of this city, which had a car load of chickens in the New York railroad yards, passed inspection this week, and the chickens were sold.

The chickens from Rushville were shipped a week before Christmas, and the car was valued at $5,000. Upon arrival in New York, the sale was prevented because of the chicken diseases that had appeared, and thousands of chickens in other shipments were being daily.

There were 160 car loads in the railroad yards when the embargo was put into effect. Walter R. Thomas of this city was at a loss to know what action to take, but kept the car in that city with "Peggie" Plummer in charge.

Officers in New York got busy and cleaned up the marketing place, and chickens that were found to be sick, were killed, and in many instances entire car loads were given poison gas. The Rushville car, containing the Rush county chickens, was inspected and passed the officers as first class, and they were released. The local product company realized its money on the shipment, and was fortunate in having the car released.

The chicken disease is baffling most authorities. It has not appeared in this section of the country, and steps along that line are being taken to prevent the spread to Indiana. The disease is called the European fowl disease, and the government is carrying the fight into every state, with the campaign to check its advance in Indiana being made today.

Dr. G. W. Butler, in charge of the government inspection of meat in Indiana, has announced that he and his assistants will start a campaign to clean up all infected railroad cars, pens, coups and other containers, to prevent any spread of the epidemic in this state.

WOMAN HAS FIGHTING CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

Crisis for Mrs. Conrad Kney of Near
Manilla. Accidentally Shot by Son,
Will Come Sunday and Monday

IS DETERMINED TO GET WELL

Mrs. Erminie Kney, wife of Conrad Kney, who was accidentally shot Christmas afternoon by her son Morris, age sixteen years, was said today to have a fighting chance for recovery.

Mrs. Kney was removed to the Major hospital in Shelbyville after the accident at her home one mile east of Manilla, and an operation was performed by Dr. DePrez in-lieu of Shelbyville.

The victim was reported to be in extremely good condition, considering the surgery required, but the crisis in her condition will come Sunday and Monday, according to Dr. D. E. Barnett of Homer, her physician.

Mrs. Kney was reported to have expressed her determination to get well and this is regarded as a good sign.

She was shot in the abdomen with a .22 calibre rifle when the trigger caught on her son's glove. Her intestines were punctured four times.

Miss Louise Innis slipped and fell on the icy sidewalk in front of Lincoln Guffin's property in North Harrison street Christmas night, injuring one of her hips. She had been ill for several months with rheumatism and due to this fact the injury is quite severe. It is thought that the ligaments have been torn loose, as a result of the fall.

"Worldly Goods," Princess

"I now pronounce you man and wife!"

—and the curtain is rung up on the drama, comedy or tragedy, as the case may be, or newly-married life.

In "Worldly Goods," at the Princess theatre, it's a combination of the first two almost resulting in the last. In other words, "Worldly Goods," starring Agnes Ayres, is a comedy-drama of matrimony, the screen version of the novel by Sophie Kerr which opened at the Princess yesterday, with a happy ending, even though the gnat scene is in the divorce court.

Pat O'Malley has the leading man's role opposite the star in the production, and Victor Varconi and Edythe Chapman are also well cast.

The story has to do with money as a factor in married life. It is said that two can live as cheaply as one. "Did you ever try it?" asks Fred Hopper (Pat O'Malley), if not in just so many words. His wife is afflicted, as Hopper sees it, with the usual niceties of life—worldly goods, and Fred isn't able to supply them. So Eleanor goes out to earn enough money to help him—and that almost finishes their marital bliss.

Wage-earning and home-making don't mix, and "Worldly Goods" shows what happens when a young wife attempts to do both—and shows it in just about the most pleasing and novel manner you could hope for.

Here's one picture you shouldn't miss, whether married, unmarried or undecided. It's bound to please!

"Dante's Inferno," Monday

An immense amount of incidental preparation is always necessary in shooting such a picture as "Dante's Inferno," the new William Fox production, directed by Henry Otto, which will be seen at the Castle theatre next Monday for a two-day's engagement.

This picture made an extraordinary demand upon those in charge because of its intensely spectacular nature, particularly in those scenes in which Hell is depicted. These scenes called for a complete staff of the most expert pyrotechnicians in the world, who were assembled at the Fox studios in Hollywood to work out the big fire scenes which are an important part of "Dante's Inferno."

Another adjunct found necessary because of the intense dramatic qualities of much of the picture and the fact that hundreds upon hundreds of young girls were used in portraying lost souls, was a corps of physicians and nurses who were in constant attendance to take care of young women who might be overcome by the strain. After every big scene in Hades, it was found that from a dozen to twenty girls had fainted—usually from excitement. But not one would have quit her part under any circumstances, so anxious were they all to see it through.

I Shall Not Want:—The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. * * * Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. Psalm 23: 1, 6.

And He is mine forever."

Out-Midasing Midas

If Midas were living today, he would turn green with envy when he read that the total wealth of the United States is estimated at $320,-803,000,000. This is almost eleven times as great as the wealth of this country fifty years ago.

It is nearly four times as great as the estimated wealth of the nearest rival, the United Kingdom, and is greater than the combined riches of the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Canada, Argentina, Brazil and China.

The real property and improvements account for 54.9 percent of the total; clothing, furniture and other kindred property, 12.4 percent; manufactured goods, 8.9 percent; railroads and equipment, 6.2 percent and all other wealth not thus classified 17.6 percent.

The total estimated riches, divided by the number of inhabitants, gives a per capita wealth of approximately $2,850.

And since the outlook for the year 1925 is so bright, our national wealth stands in a fair way of being increased a substantial sum during the next twelve months.

Evidences of prosperity are to be found on every hand. Freight car loadings have recalled the peak and the steel industry has plans to excel its pre-war capacity.

One company alone that owns public utility properties throughout the country has announced that it will extend $41,500,000 on expansion projects in 1925.

Live stock and grain prices have been showing more strength and the general tone of agriculture is more promising than it has been since the post-war slump.

The new year should set a record for American achievement and there is no valid reason why Rush county should not keep in step and reap the rich harvest that awaits those who take advantage of their opportunities.

The World's Mirror

A young woman who was hurled on to the cow catcher of a locomotive, which hit the automobile in which she was riding, said she had had enough thrills to last a lifetime. The engineer was ignorant of the accident. Splitting the zero atmosphere at a mile a minute nimbled her and in twelve minutes she rolled off, scarcely injured.

The newspapers, of course, gave the story great prominence because it was so unusual. Newspapers feature the abnormal rather than the normal.

Poison booze, graft, scandal, divorce, murder, bloodshed and accidents are the daily menu that the front page serves its readers.

After reading the papers, many people, especially the young, believe that the world has gone to perdition, when in reality it hasn't.

When a man obeys the law and attends to his own business, he seldom sees his name in the paper, unless he performs some unusual service or does something out of the ordinary.

So it's well to remember that the

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Stephen T. Mather, director of the National Park Service, is personally a rather retiring individual. He likes publicity for Uncle Sam's parks and will expatiate for hours on their wonders and magnificence, but he wants to keep out of the picture himself.

So when a friend in Seattle received a wire from him recently, while he was en route to that city, asking that he be met at the station by a photographer, the natural supposition was that Mather had at last succumbed to the personal publicity complex and wanted to get his picture in the papers.

So when Mather stepped off the train he found himself looking right into the lens of a big camera while the photographer signaled an imperative "Hold it a minute, please."

"What's the idea?" Mather asked his friend, ducking as the camera clicked.

"Just complying with your telegram," was the answer. "You wired for a photographer to meet you, and there he is."

"Photographer, nothing!" Mather exclaimed. "What I wired for was a stenographer, not a photographer."

An accident insurance agent dropped in at the office of Representative Jim Beggs of Ohio and wanted to write him up a new policy.

"Better not do it," Beggs warned. "I'm a poor risk."

"Aw, pshaw!" said the agent. "All congressmen are good risks. They lead sheltered lives. But even at that they ought to have the protection of our policy."

"I'm not so sure about being a good risk," Beggs answered. "I was in a bank up in New Jersey, recently when a part of the plastering fell on me and almost knocked me for a casualty."

"A little later Walter Brown of Toledo and I were going home early one morning and I went through the windshield when the auto started up a telegraph pole."

"Just last week a trunk fell and smashed my hand. Under your policy I suppose I'd have collected a nice sum for that."

"You certainly would," the agent responded. "And it's plain you need protection."

"Well, let's see your policy," said the congressman, swinging around in his swivel chair and extending his hand.

But before his caller could comply the swivel rod of the chair snapped and the representative went sprawling on the floor.

Before Beggs could pick himself up from the debris and kick the fragments of the chair into a corner, the agent grabbed his hat, his policies, his portfolio, and beat it.

"Risk!" he exclaimed as he scurried down the corridor. "That guy's no risk at all. He's a certain loss."

JOHN COOLIDGE, of Plymouth, Vt., once remarked that his son, Cal, "could get more sap out of a tree" than any other boy he ever knew.

Apparently, however, Calvin didn't bring the old trees dry, for the same trees he tapped as a boy provide the sap from which is made the sirup that Cal today, as president, provides for his breakfast guests.

Last spring's run of sap was particularly fine, and Col. Coolidge has sent enough of the sirup to the White House to sweeten up a lot of even the sourest senatorial dispositions.

TONIGHT IS THE NIGHT TO TRAMP THOSE TROJANS!

Hold tight to the defense, you Lions, and also snap into the basket shooting. Don't let 'em rip Rushville.

The gang tonight at Newcastle will be the last one this year for the Lions. Ring it up as a victory.

"R" MIGHT BE WORSE

Last week Newcastle lost two heart breakers, one to Muncie and one to Marion. According to Markin 'em up, he is glad that Rushville don't begin with the letter, "M".

THREE "R'S"

Our three R's aren't readin' ritin' and rittimatic so they must be, "Royally Rip Rushville". And the R's are going to be carried out at the Maurice C. Goodwin Gym, here, this Saturday evening. They say that the three R's are essential so we are going to have our part.

—Markin 'em up, Newcastle

Greensburg counted their fifth straight victory when they defeated Knightstown this week, 33 to 29. The Nightengales showed up strong against the Tree City team.

Connersville has a lay-off for a time in which they can rest up from the defeats by Rushville and Franklin. They play at Columbus on the last day of this year.

Seems sorta funny today not to have any basketball game to write up for Friday night, but today seems more like Tuesday than it does Saturday.

Have you exchanged those socks yet?

NOT LIKE A FORD

'Nother cold wave coming, says the weather man. Lions go better in cold weather.

GOSH, AIN'T THIS AWFUL?

The Knightstown Banner comments on the game tonight, as follows: The Roarin' Lions of Rushville have been fasting all week pre paratory to eatin' up the Newcastle Trojans in their new Y-gym on tomorrow (Saturday) night. The Lions are hungry and eat-a-lightin', won't there be one hullabaloo time? We have a hankerin' for the Lions, but blood is thicker than water, hence we are pulling for our county seat boys. At 'em, ye descendants of the pointers of Blue river, lather 'em well, then beat 'em like 'll!

Watch Edwards tonight, Lions. Don't let him run wild. Rozelle plays at floor guard, and he has a way of busting through for long shots.

Although Newcastle has previously dedicated their gym, tonight would be a good time to initiate it with a real basketball game, one from start to finish.

THIS FELLOW PICKS NEW-CASTLE

Speaking of Newcastle, Watching the Fools is going to make a prediction that Gordon's team breaks in the limelight this week by trimming one of the members of the so-called "Big Ten". Rushville plays at Newcastle Saturday evening and will, we believe, be the victim in the encounter.

—Watching the Fools, Muncie

SHOW HIM LIONS. THAT HE IS A POOR GUESSE!

One thing about a long Xmas vacation, the players are in no danger of "flunking" in their studies.

The Blue Birds at Carthage expect to entertain the Lions in big style next Friday night. They have a new gym and their team is one of those kind that plays unexpectedly. Tonight they are in a slump and then the next night, they could beat Franklin college.

While the Lions are at Carthage next Friday, the poor little Cubs will journey over to Richmond for a game with the Morton seconds. The

Nurmi Runs by "Watch System"

Nurmi carries a watch in his hand while running and times himself for each lap. Harris' Helped Senators

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 27.—Through some smart trading by young Bucky Harris, the Washington Senators have the only major league club that succeeded in swinging a deal to strengthen itself during the winter baseball meeting.

The world's champions secured Mike McNally indirectly from the New York Yankees and the veteran pitcher, Stanley Coveleskie, from the Cleveland Indians in exchange for three rookies, a pitcher, an outfielder and an infielder.

Harris was fortunate enough to strengthen the champions in two departments, without weakening another department.

The lack of reliable reserve strength was the outstanding weakness of the Washington club in the 1924 pennant race, but Harris was lucky enough to avoid any accidents that would have forced him to call upon his reserves. In the world's series against the New York Giants he had to call upon utility men when Roger Peckinpaugh was hurt and then it was shown that he didn't have any second-string strength.

Mike McNally is one of the best utility men in the American League. He can play second base, third base, and shortstop. He wasn't strong enough at the bat to replace any of the Yankee regulars and there was an opinion that he wasn't strong enough physically to last through an entire season as a regular.

In the event that Peck's legs haven't gone back on him permanently, McNally will be needed only as a substitute next season and with Mike around, Harris will find it possible to rest his veteran shortstop by using McNally part of the time.

Coveleskie will give the Senators another experienced right-hand pitcher, something that the club needs badly, especially if Walter Johnson should make some other arrangements which would enable him to retire from the major leagues.

After the deal he had hoped to complete for the purchase of the Oakland Pacific Coast League club had failed, it was thought that Johnson would decide to return to the Senators, as he was offered a new contract at very attractive figures. It is considered quite certain that he will return to the Senators rather than gamble with another minor league club, because the contract which was offered him by the Senators was said to represent about $50,000 and even if he is well off financially, he hardly would want to turn down that opportunity.

COUNTY BOYS WORK DISCUSSION TOPIC

Summer Camp Being Considered, County Supt. Farthing States at Plum Creek Hi-Y Club Meeting

DISCUSSES SILAS MARNER

Speaker Uses Eliot's Story to Illustrate That Men Must Develop Along Three Lines

County Superintendent B. D. Farthing spoke before the Plum Creek Hi-Y club Tuesday at its regular meeting. He prefaced his talk by outlining plans that are under consideration for county boys' work the coming year under the direction of the State Y. M. C. A. in co-operation with various clubs and organizations within the county, namely Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. One of the principal features of that work is a proposed boys' camp this coming summer.

Mr. Farthing spoke upon the subject, "The Three Paths." He emphasized the fact that in order to be an all around man, one has to be developed mentally, physically and spiritually, that no one of these can be omitted by the individual, who attains to the best that is possible.

The speaker took as a basis for his argument, George Eliot's story of Silas Marner, showing how Silas Marner lost his faith in God, in his friends and in love. He showed the change brought about in Marner's life, through this loss; how he degenerated into a hard hearted, cold money loving miser, whose only ambition an ideal was the accumulation of gold; how he became a person of no use to himself or to his neighbors. Mr. Farthing using Silas as an example showing how one eventually becomes like one's ideal if he continually strives toward that ideal.

In the course of his remarks the speaker showed how Silas Marner was led back to his lost faith in God, friends and love having regained his three fold faith became a respected and worthwhile citizen again.

Mr. Farthing's talk was thoroughly enjoyed by those members present and the sentiment of all was aptly expressed by one who said, "I feel as if we had got some where tonight."

Plans were laid for next Sunday at which time the club will have a part in the church services at Plum Creek, assisting the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Saunders, who will speak upon "Father and Son." Plans were also discussed for having other speakers before the club from among schoolmen, Kiwanians, Rotarians and professional men.

FILES $10,000 SUIT AGAINST I. & C. CO.

Margaret Gill, Administratrix of Estate of William Gill, Who Was Killed, Seeks Damages

Connersville, Ind., Dec. 27—Margaret Gill, administratrix of the estate of William Gill, who was killed in crossing accident a Martin's Stop on the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line, has filed suit for damages in the sum of $10,000 against the interurban company in the Fayette circuit court. The plaintiff in the action is the widow of the deceased.

Mr. Gill was riding in an automobile at the time of the accident. His machine was struck at the crossing by an eastbound car and carried some distance. Mr. Gill was killed instantly.

According to the complaint Mr. Gill was driving at a moderate rate of speed. The traction car crew is alleged to have operated the car recklessly, negligently and carelessly. Failure to sound a warning gong or bell as required by law is charged in the complaint. It is alleged that a warning signal was sounded when the traction car was within 50 or 60 feet of the crossing and that the driver of the automobile did not have time to stop or to cross the tracks before the car reached the crossing. No signal was given when the traction car was within 80 to 100 rods of the crossing as provided by law, it is alleged.

The complaint avers that the traction car was traveling at the rate of 40 miles an hour. It sets out the point that Mr. Gill had seen a west-

The Night After Christmas

'Twas the night after Christmas, and all through the flat, Every creature was wide-awake—barring the cat; The stockings were hung in a heap on a chair, Quite empty of candy St. Nick had put there. The children were all doubled up in their beds, With pains in their tummies and aches in their heads. Mamma heated water, while I, in my wrapper, Was walking the kid (who is not a kid-napper); When out in the street there arose a great clatter, And I put down the kid to see what was the matter: Rush out in the entry, threw the door open wide, And found an old gentleman standing outside. I looked at him closely, and realized then 'Twas the doctor I'd sent for that morning at ten. He was dressed in an ulster, to keep him from chills, And his pockets were bulging with boxes of pills. He came to the nursery and opened his pack, Full of fresh paragon and strong ipecac; Rhubarb and soda-mints, fine castor oil, And pink sticking-plaster, rolled up in a coil. The children all howled in a chorus of pain, And the kid lifted up his contralto again. He felt all their pulses and looked at their tongues, Took all their temperatures, sounded their lungs. When he'd dosed all the children and silenced the kid, He put back his medicine, down the stairs slid, Jumped into his cab, and said to a driver (In excellent humor—he'd just made a "flyer") "I'm twelve hours behind my appointments, I fear. But I wish it was Christmas each day in the year."

bound car pass the crossing about 6:40 o'clock in the morning, a few minutes before the accident occurred and that he had no way of knowing that the eastbound car had left the siding west of the crossing. Survivors listed in the suit are the widow and three children. The deceased was 50 years old.

PLANS MADE FOR STATE-WIDE MEET

Committee Representing all Denominations of Religion Now Arranging Details of Program

ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Aims of Conference is to Provide Plans for Program of Training For Children

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 27—Department of Public Instruction, December 19—Extensive plans are being made for a state-wide conference on Religious Education to be held at Indianapolis, Wednesday, January 14 and a committee representing all denominations is now arranging the details of the parley.

Several days ago, Dr. Henry Noble Sherwood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, called a group of men and women, representing each of the leading religious organizations of the state, into conference and proposed that a state conference on the matter of Religious Education be held at an early date. The group unanimously agreed that such a conference would result in much good and empowered Dr. Sherwood to appoint a committee to arrange for the parley.

Dr. Sherwood appointed the following men to assist him in arranging the meeting: T. E. Albertson, Secretary of the Institute of Religious Education; Dev. F. H. Gavisk, pastor of St. John's Catholic Church; Rabbi M. M. Feuerlicht of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation; and Dr. C. M. Dinsmore, general superintendent of the Indiana Baptist State Convention.

Aims of the conference to be held next month, as set forth by the committee, are: "to provide plans for a program of religious training for children of Indiana in harmony with the principles of separation of church and state, giving freedom of religious instruction and mutual responsibility of the home and the church for the moral training of the youth."

The meeting will probably be held in the Claypool hotel and will be open to the public. There will be four principal sessions, a morning, afternoon and evening meeting and a noon luncheon. A number of nationally recognized authorities on Religious Training will be the speakers and scores of religious and educational leaders of the state will make short talks.

There will be no attempt to draft legislation, it merely being an effort to gather the view-points of each group represented in the state and to consider ways and means of Religious instruction for the youth which will be acceptable to all.

"The members of the committee favor religious education of some sort," said Dr. Sherwood, "and in order to provide a method of favorable to all we are calling a general conference open to the public for further consideration of the problem."

Further details of the program will be announced within a short time.

Origin of Familiar Words

Some of our words owe their present form to the mistakes of our forefathers. A bellfry, which originally had nothing to do with a bell, is correctly a bellfry, i. e., a watch-tower. A certain kind of apple used to be known as a costard, and a dealer in this fruit as a costardmonger, and later on as a costermonger. Similarly, a grocer was originally an engrosser, or a dealer in cross, while a butcher was a becher or killer of goats.—London Mail

Good and Bad Luck

To balance "unlucky" superstitions there are many "lucky" ones. If, when dressing, one accidentally puts on a garment inside out, an unexpected gift will shortly arrive. To carry about a coin with a hole in it is to secure one's self against misfortune, and if swallows are permitted to build near a house, the owner need not trouble to take out a fire insurance policy, for fire will never attack a dwelling thus protected.

SAYS BALTZELL IS TO BE APPOINTED

Press Dispatches From Washington
Today Assert That He Will Succeed Judge Anderson

JUDGE SPARKS CONSIDERED

Friends Feel He Could Have Been
Appointed if Senator Watson Had
Said The Word

Press association dispatches from Washington today say that Judge Robert C. Baltzell of Princeton, Ind., will be nominated by President Coolidge for federal judge in the Indiana district, to succeed Judge A. B. Anderson, who will be elevated to the United States circuit court of appeals at Chicago.

Elevation of Judge Anderson was decided upon six months ago, but President Coolidge deferred sending his nomination to the senate until his successor could be agreed upon.

Senator James E. Watson of this city, who was importuned to recommend Judge Will M. Sparks of this city for the federal judgeship, urged the nomination of Judge Baltzell, and the department of justice is reported to have been making an extended investigation of the Indiana situation.

It was intimated in Washington dispatches at one time that President Coolidge might disregard Senator Watson's recommendation and select another man for the place, but Senator Watson has been quoted as saying that Judge Baltzell would eventually be nominated by the president.

A story coming out of Washington a week ago asserted that Senator Watson was called to the department of justice and asked if he would withdraw his recommendation of Judge Baltzell, so that Judge Sparks could be nominated, but refused to do so because he was pledged for Baltzell.

Local friends of Judge Sparks have been using all the pressure they could to persuade Senator Watson, and finally Attorney General Stone and President Coolidge, that the Rushville jurist was the best in Indiana for the federal judgeship, but their efforts apparently have been in vain.

Other Indiana judges and attorneys have been under consideration, but there is a feeling here that Judge Sparks would have been appointed, if Senator Watson had said the word. The belief prevails here that Judge Sparks would have brought credit to Senator Watson for having nominated him.

JURY STANDS 6 TO 6, JUDGE IS INFORMED

Twelve Persons Who Will Decide
Fate of "Kid" McCoy Reported
to be Equally Divided

TO CONVEGE AT 10 A. M. TODAY

By HAROLD E. SWISHER
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 27.—When the jury in the trial of "Kid" McCoy was locked up for the night shortly after 10 o'clock last night, they stood six to six, the foreman said in reply to a query by Judge Charles Crail.

Throughout the nine hours deliberation, in which sixty-six ballots were taken, rumors from the jury room said that majority was in favor of acquittal. One report had it that the balloting was 11 to 1 and that a woman juror stood between the former pugilist and freedom.

At 10 a. m. today, the jury will convene to continue their attempts to decide whether McCoy is guilty of the murder of Mrs. Theresa Mors, the last of his multitude of sweethearts.

Judge Crail ordered the jury escorted under guard to a downtown hotel, after a transcript of testimony given by Mrs. Jennie Thomas, McCoy's sister, was read on request. Before the grand jury which indicted her brother Mrs. Thomas testified he said, "I'm afraid I killed that woman" to her.

During the present trial, she said she could not remember this or any other night Mrs. Mors died.

STAR MAIL ROUTE MAY BE STARTED

Advertisement for Carrier Between
Rushville and Mays Received at
Local Postoffice

TO REPLACE DUNREITH ROUTE

Mail Service at Mays Now Very Unsatisfactory and Patrons Petitioned for a Change

A star mail route between Mays and Rushville will be established February 1, 1925, if a satisfactory bid is received by the postoffice department, and the star route from Dunreith, which is now supplying the Mays postoffice, will be discontinued.

Postmaster A. L. Riggs has received an advertisement to receive bids to carry the mail between Mays and Rushville. The advertisement calls for two round trips daily, the distance between the two places being approximately eleven miles.

Bids will be received up until January 6, and if a proposal to carry the mail for a reasonable sum is made, it is presumed here that the route will be established.

The star route carrier would not be required to make box collection or delivery and the proposed schedule is as follows:

Leave Mays daily except Sunday 6:45 a. m. and 4 p. m.; arrive at Rushville daily except Sunday 7:30 a. m. and 4:45 p. m.; leave Rushville daily except Sunday 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. and arrive at Mays at 8:45 a. m. and 5:45 p. m.

The present service is very unsatisfactory, as mail for the Mays postoffice and rural route arrives one or two days late most of the time. Mail from Rushville, for example, frequently is two days late and sometimes as much as three days late.

The mail is delivered at Dunreith by fast Pennsylvania trains that do not stop. Not infrequently a mail sack falls under the wheels and the mail is ground to pieces.

Dissatisfaction over the service has been growing for some time and a few weeks ago patrons of the Mays postoffice and rural route petitioned the postoffice department for a star route from Rushville. The advertisement for bids to carry the mail is the result.

"Unless the proposal to perform the service for a reasonable sum, accompanied by the required bond, properly executed, is received, the contract will not be awarded," says a letter of instructions from the fourth assistant postmaster general to Postmaster Riggs.

The bid is to be made with the intention of using a motor vehicle when the road and weather permits.

It is set forth that a postmaster, assistant postmaster, clerk of any person employed in the postal service, or the husband or wife of the postmaster or assistant postmaster or any of their immediate families shall not be permitted to become a mail contractor.

The term of the contract will be from February 1, 1925 to June 30, 1927.

Send Mercury Down

EXPECTED HERE BY TONIGHT

The mercury was mounting rapidly today and was expected to reach the highest point in the thermometer tube since Tuesday, but the more seasonable weather was not expected to last long because of the third cold wave of the week, which is due in this section again tonight.

Zero temperatures are predicted for the new period of cold weather, which will continue over Sundays.

The temperature did not get down to zero during the night, according to the government thermometer at Mauney, Elwood, Kirkwood, county weather observer, stated this morning that the lowest point reached during the night was five above zero. Wednesday night the mercury went ten below zero and Thursday night six below.

By eight o'clock this morning the temperature had risen to eleven above zero and was still going up. It was expected to go above the freezing point by this afternoon. The first evidence of thawing for several days was to be seen today.

By A. L. BRADFORD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Dec. 27.—The conference of ambassadors, in session here today agreed not to evacuate Cologne.

The conference will send a collective note to Germany on the question.

The ambassadors met at noon with M. Cambon of France presiding. Marshal Foch and a number of military experts were summoned. At the same time German Ambassador Von Hoersch was received by Marshal Foch in his bed chamber where he is confined by illness.

The allied activity followed rapidly on receipt of news of discovery of huge illegal arms stores in Germany, which France claims is a direct violation of the disarmament provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

SNIDER IS BOUND OVER TO THE CIRCUIT COURT

Rushville Boy Held for Vehicle Taking
Must Wait Until January For
Arraignment

ADMITS RANSACKING HOME

Orean Snider of this city, who is held in jail in Connersville, has pleaded not guilty to the charge of vehicle taking in police court and has been bound over to the Fayette circuit court for a further trial. He has been unable to provide bond.

The Fayette circuit court will not convene until the early part of January. Snider is wanted in Rushville on a charge of house breaking, having been identified as the person who was inside of the house when Clarence Walden went there a week ago this afternoon, and discovered that the home of Ray Waggener had been ransacked.

Snider, when arrested one night this week in Connersville, was standing beside a stolen machine belonging to a man by the name of Weaver, who lives at Bentonville. The car was taken from the streets in Cambridge City.

Snider did not give a good account of himself to the officers and he was jailed. He gave them the name of Walter Lucas of Chicago, and he is held in Connersville under that name.

NEW IMPETUS IS GIVEN DEATH PROBE

William D. Shepherd Due to Arrive
For Examination in "Millionaire
Orphan" Inquiry

MUST CLEAR UP SOME POINTS

State's Attorney Attaches Much Importance to Information Regarding
Foster Father

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Arrival here today of William D. Shepherd will give new impetus to the investigation of the death of William McClintock, "millionaire orphan." Shepherd foster-father of McClintock, is due here before noon from Albuquerque, N. Mex., where he went on a visit with Mrs. Shepherd shortly after Billy died.

States Attorney Robert E. Crowe wants to question Shepherd on his visits to a medical laboratory here in 1919 and 1920 while bacteria cultures were being made.

Crowe attaches much importance to information on these visits, given by F. T. Breidigan, formerly of the Illinois Research Laboratory and now of the Battle Creek sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich.

While employed here, Breidigan said he was visited frequently in his laboratory by Shepherd, at times in the company of a physician and at other times alone.

"During the times that he came alone he engaged me in conversation and discussion of the general work in hand at the time," Breidigan's statement declares. He remained with me during these visits from one half hour to two hours. During these visits we discussed typhoid germs.

"He told me he was a registered pharmacist. My recollection is that while he was present in the laboratory we examined cultures and discussed infectious diseases, their causes and results. He stated he was familiar with chemistry and drugs and was a druggist.

"Whatever work I might have been engaged upon I would continue and Mr. Shepherd would stand beside and observe whatever I then might be doing and discuss it with me.

"He indicated an inclination toward scientific research and from his general attitude and questions, I gathered he was interested in clinical routine.

"During the time Mr. Shepherd was in the laboratory, I now recall I was examining blood-making Wasserman tests, taking blood counts, estimation of the number of blood cells, examination for tuberculosis and we would discuss how the above was being done and he would observe and watch my laboratory work in connection with the thing.

"I recall that I had in the laboratory a culture for the purpose of examining typhoid infection."

Shepherd notified his attorneys here that he visited the laboratory simply for the purpose of receiving expert attention for an infection.

Crowe continues to question various persons connected with the case, but so far "nothing of great importance has developed." The doctors who attended Billy said that death was caused by typhoid.

Shepherd stated that McClintock was of frail stature and aggravated matters by his late hours. McClintock was up early in the morning to attend business college and stayed up far after midnight attending social functions, Shepherd said.

CHICKENS FROM HERE ACCEPTED

Car Load Shipped to New York by
Adams Produce Co., Passes Inspection and is Sold

AN EMBARGO IS IN EFFECT

Rushville Company Fortunate Because Many Chickens Are Killed
Because of Disease

The embargo on shipping chickens to the eastern market is still in force, because of a disease that is killing thousands of chickens, and the Adams Produce Company of this city, which had a car load of chickens in the New York railroad yards, passed inspection this week, and the chickens were sold.

The chickens from Rushville were shipped a week before Christmas, and the car was valued at $5,000. Upon arrival in New York, the sale was prevented because of the chicken diseases that had appeared, and thousands of chickens in other shipments were dying daily.

There were 160 car loads in the railroad yards when the embargo was put into effect. Walter R. Thomas of this city was at a loss to know what action to take, but kept the car in that city with "Peggie" Plummer in charge.

Officers in New York got busy and cleaned up the marketing place, and chickens that were found to be sick, were killed, and in many instances entire car loads were given poison gas. The Rushville car, containing the Rush county chickens, was inspected and passed the officers as first class, and they were released. The local product company realized its money on the shipment, and was fortunate in having the car released.

The chicken disease is baffling most authorities. It has not appeared in this section of the country, and steps along that line are being taken to prevent the spread to Indiana. The disease is called the European fowl disease, and the government is carrying the fight into every state, with the campaign to check its advance in Indiana being made today.

Dr. G. W. Butler, in charge of the government inspection of meat in Indiana, has announced that he and his assistants will start a campaign to clean up all infected railroad cars, pens, coups and other containers, to prevent any spread of the epidemic in this state.

WOMAN HAS FIGHTING CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

Crisis for Mrs. Conrad Kney of Near
Manilla, Accidentally Shot by Son,
Will Come Sunday and Monday

IS DETERMINED TO GET WELL

Mrs. Erminie Kney, wife of Conrad Kney, who was accidentally shot Christmas afternoon by her son Morris, age sixteen years, was said today to have a fighting chance for recovery.

Mrs. Kney was removed to the Major hospital in Shelbyville after the accident at her home one mile east of Manilla, and an operation was performed by Dr. DePrez, In-law of Shelbyville.

The victim was reported to be in extremely good condition, considering the surgery required, but the crisis in her condition will come Sunday and Monday, according to Dr. D. E. Barnett of Homer, her physician.

Mrs. Kney was reported to have expressed her determination to get well and this is regarded as a good sign.

She was shot in the abdomen with a .22 calibre rifle when the trigger caught on her son's glove. Her intestines were punctured four times.

SLIPS ON ICE, INJURED

Miss Louise Innis slipped and fell on the icy sidewalk in front of Lincoln Griffin's property in North Harrison street Christmas night, injuring one of her hips. She had been ill for several months with rheumatism and due to this fact the injury is quite severe. It is thought that the fragments have been torn loose, as a result of the fall.

“Worldly Goods,” Princess

“I now pronounce you man and wife!”

—and the curtain is rung up on the drama, comedy or tragedy, as the case may be, or newly-married life.

In “Worldly Goods,” at the Princess theatre, it’s a combination of the first two almost resulting in the last. In other words, “Worldly Goods,” starring Agnes Ayres, is a comedy-drama of matrimony, the screen version of the novel by Sophie Kerr which opened at the Princess yesterday, with a happy ending, even though the goal scene is in the divorce court.

Pat O’Malley has the leading man’s role opposite the star in the production, and Victor Varconi and Edythe Chapman are also well cast.

The story has to do with money as a factor in married life. It is said that two can live as cheaply as one. “Did you ever try it?” asks Fred Hopper (Pat O’Malley), if not in just so many words. His wife is afflicted, as Hopper sees it, with the usual niceties of life—worldly goods, and Fred isn’t able to supply them. So Eleanor goes out to earn enough money to help him—and that almost finishes their marital bliss.

Wage-earning and home-making don’t mix, and “Worldly Goods” shows what happens when a young wife attempts to do both—and shows it in just about the most pleasing and novel manner you could hope for.

Here’s one picture you shouldn’t miss, whether married, unmarried or undecided. It’s bound to please!

"Dante's Inferno," Monday

An immense amount of incidental preparation is always necessary in shooting such a picture as “Dante's Inferno,” the new William Fox production, directed by Henry Otto, which will be seen at the Castle theatre next Monday for a two day's engagement.

This picture made an extraordinary demand upon those in charge because of its intensely spectacular nature, particularly in those scenes in which Hell is depicted. These scenes called for a complete staff of the most expert pyrotechnicians in the world, who were assembled at the Fox studios in Hollywood to work out the big fire scenes which are an important part of “Dante's Inferno.”

Another adjunct found necessary because of the intense dramatic qualities of much of the picture and the fact that hundreds upon hundreds of young girls were used in portraying lost souls, was a corps of physicians and nurses who were in constant attendance to take care of young women who might be overcome by the strain. After every big scene in Hades, it was found that from a dozen to twenty girls had fainted—usually from excitement. But not one would have quit her part under any circumstances, so anxious were they all to see it through.

I Shall Not Want:—The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. Psalm 23: 1, 6.

Out-Midasing Midas

If Midas were living today, he would turn green with envy when he read that the total wealth of the United States is estimated at $320,000,000. This is almost eleven times as great as the wealth of this country fifty years ago.

It is nearly four times as great as the estimated wealth of the nearest rival, the United Kingdom, and is greater than the combined riches of the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Canada, Argentina, Brazil and China.

The real property and improvements account for 54.9 percent of the total; clothing, furniture and other kindred property, 12.4 percent; manufactured goods, 8.9 percent; railroads and equipment, 6.2 percent; and all other wealth not thus classified 17.6 percent.

The total estimated riches, divided by the number of inhabitants, gives a per capita wealth of approximately $2,850.

And since the outlook for the year 1925 is so bright, our national wealth stands in a fair way of being increased a substantial sum during the next twelve months.

Evidences of prosperity are to be found on every hand. Freight car loadings have recalled the peak and the steel industry has plans to exceed its pre-war capacity.

One company alone that owns public utility properties throughout the country has announced that it will expend $41,500,000 on expansion projects in 1925.

Live stock and grain prices have been showing more strength and the general tone of agriculture is more promising than it has been since the post-war slump.

The new year should set a record for American achievement and there is no valid reason why Rush county should not keep in step and reap the rich harvest that awaits those who take advantage of their opportunities.

The World's Mirror

A young woman who was hurled on to the cow catcher of a locomotive, which hit the automobile in which she was riding, said she had had enough thrills to last a lifetime. The engineer was ignorant of the accident. Splitting the zero atmosphere at a mile a minute nimbly and in twelve minutes she rolled off, scarcely injured.

The newspapers, of course, gave the story great prominence because it was so unusual. Newspapers feature the abnormal rather than the normal.

Poison booze, graft, scandal, divorce, murder, bloodshed and accidents are the daily menu that the front page serves its readers.

After reading the papers, many people, especially the young, believe that the world has gone to perdition, when in reality it hasn't.

When a man obeys the law and attends to his own business, he seldom sees his name in the paper, unless he performs some unusual service or does something out of the ordinary.

So it's well to remember that the

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Stephen T. Mather, director of the National Park Service, is personally a rather retiring individual. He likes publicity for Uncle Sam's parks and with exquisite for hours on their wonders and magnificence, but he wants to keep out of the picture himself.

So when a friend in Seattle received a wire from him recently, while he was en route to that city, asking that he be met at the station by a photographer, the natural supposition was that Mather had at last succumbed to the personal publicity complex and wanted to get his picture in the papers.

So when Mather stepped off the train he found himself looking right into the lens of a big camera while the photographer signaled an imperative "Hold it a minute, please."

"What's the idea?" Mather asked his friend, ducking as the camera clicked.

"Just complying with your telegram," was the answer. "You wired for a photographer to meet you, and there he is."

"Photographer, nothing," Mather exclaimed. "What I wired for was a stenographer, not a photographer."

"An accident insurance agent dropped in at the office of Representative Jim Begg of Ohio and wanted to write him up a new policy."

"Better not do it," Begg warned. "I'm a poor risk."

"Aw, puhaw," said the agent. "All congressmen are good risks. They lead sheltered lives. But even at that they ought to have the protection of our policy."

"Is not as sure about being a good risk," Begg answered. "I was in a bunk up in New Jersey recently when a part of the plastering fell on me, and almost knocked me for a casualty."

"A little later Walter Brown of Toledo and I were going home early one morning and I went through the windshield when the auto started up a telegraph pole."

"Just last week a trunk fell and smashed my hand. Under your policy I suppose I'd have collected a nice sum for that."

"You certainly would," the agent responded. "And it's plain you need protection."

"WELL, let's see your policy," said the congressman, swinging around in his swivel chair and extending his hand.

But before his caller could comply the swivel rod of the chair snapped and the representative went sprawling on the floor.

Before Begg could pick himself up from the debris and kick the fragments of the chair into a corner, the agent grabbed his hat, his policies, his portfolio, and beat it.

"Risk," he exclaimed as he hurried down the corridor. "That guy's no risk at all. He's a certain loss."

JOHN COOLIDGE, of Plymouth, Vt., once remarked that his son, Cal, "could get more sap out of a tree than any other boy he ever knew."

Apparently, however, Cal did not write the old trees dry, for the same trees he tapped as a boy provide the sap from which is made the strap that Cal today, as president, provides for his back's fast goods.

Last spring's run of sap was particularly fine, and Cal Coolidge has sent enough of the string to the White House to swat up 4 in. of even the coarsest stenographer's positions.

TONIGHT IS THE NIGHT TO TRAMP THOSE TROJANS!

Hold tight to the defense, you Lions, and also snap into the basket shooting. Don't let 'em rip in Rushville.

The gang tonight at Newcastle will be the last one this year for the Lions. Ring it up as a victory.

"R" MIGHT BE WORSE

Last week Newcastle lost two heart breakers, one to Muncie and one to Marion. According to Markin' 'em up, he is glad that Rushville don't begin with the letter, "M".

THREE "R'S"

Our three R's aren't readin' ritin' and rithmetic so they must be, "Rushville Rip Rushville". And the R's are going to be carried out at the Maurice C. Goodwin Gym, here, this Saturday evening. They say that the three R's are essential so we are going to have our part.

—Markin' 'em up, Newcastle

Greenburg counted their fifth straight victory when they defeated Knightstown this week, 33 to 29. The Nightingales showed up strong against the Tree City team.

Connersville has a lay-off for a time in which they can rest up from the defeats by Rushville and Franklin. They play at Columbus on the last day of this year.

Seems sorta funny today not to have any basketball game to write up for Friday night, but today seems more like Tuesday than it does Saturday.

Have you exchanged these socks yet?

NOT LIKE A FORD

'Nother cold wave coming, says the weather man. Lions go better in cold weather.

GOSH, AIN'T THIS AWFUL?

The Knightstown Banner comments on the game tonight, as follows: The Roarin' Lions of Rushville have been fasting all week preparatory to eatin' up the Newcastle Trojans in their new Y-gym on tomorrow (Saturday) night. The Lions are hungry and cats-a-lightin' won't there be one hullabaloo time! We have a hankerin' for the Lions, but blood is thicker than water, hence we are pulling for our county seat boys. At 'em, ye descendants of the polesters of Blue river, lather 'em well, then beat 'em like 'll!

Watch Edwards tonight. Lions. Don't let him run wild. Houde plays at floor guard, and he has a way of busting through for long shots.

Although Newcastle has previously dedicated their gym, tonight would be a good time to initiate it with a real basketball game, one from start to finish.

THIS FELLOW PICKS NEWCASTLE

Speaking of Newcastle, Watching the Fools is going to make a prediction that Gordon's team breaks in the limelight this week by trimming one of the members of the so-called "Big Ten". Rushville plays at Newcastle Saturday evening and will, we believe, be the victim in the encounter.

—Watching the Fools, Muncie

SHOW HIM, LIONS, THAT HE IS A POOR GUESSEER!

One thing about a long Xmas vacation, the players are in no danger of "flunking" in their studies.

The Blue Birds at Carthage expect to entertain the Lions in big style next Friday night. They have a new gym and their team is one of those kind that plays unexpectedly. Tonight they are in a slump and then the next night, they could heat Franklin college.

While the Lions are at Carthage next Friday, the poor little Cubs will journey over to Richmond for a game with the Morton seconds. The

Harris' Helped Senators

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 27.—Through some smart trading by young Buckey Harris, the Washington Senators was the only major league club that succeeded in swinging a deal to strengthen itself during the winter baseball meeting.

The world's champions secured Mike McNally indirectly from the New York Yankees and the veteran spitball pitcher, Stanley Coveleskie, from the Cleveland Indians in exchange for three rookies, a pitcher, an outfielder and an infielder.

Harris was fortunate enough to strengthen the champions in two departments, without weakening another department.

The lack of reliable reserve strength was the outstanding weakness of the Washington club in the 1924 pennant race, but Harris was lucky enough to avoid any accidents that would have forced him to call upon his reserves. In the world's series against the New York Giants he had to call upon utility men when Roger Peckinpaugh was hurt and then it was shown that he didn't have any second-string strength.

Mike McNally is one of the best utility men in the American League. He can play second base, third base, and shortstop. He wasn't strong enough at the bat to replace any of the Yankee regulars and there was an opinion that he wasn't strong enough physically to last through an entire season as a regular.

In the event that Peck's legs haven't gone back on him permanently, McNally will be needed only as a substitute next season and with Mike around, Harris will find it possible to rest his veteran shortstop by using McNally part of the time.

Coveleskie will give the Senators another experienced right-hand pitcher, something that the club needs badly, especially if Walter Johnson should make some other arrangements which will enable him to retire from the major leagues.

After the deal he had hoped to complete for the purchase of the Oakland Pacific Coast League club had failed, it was thought that Johnson would decide to return to the Senators, as he was offered a new contract at very attractive figures. It is considered quite certain that he will return to the Senators rather than gamble with another minor league club, because the contract which was offered him by the Senators was said to represent about $50,000 and even if he is well off financially, he hardly would want to turn down that opportunity.

Coveleskie had reached the end in Cleveland, but that does not mean that he will be no good in Washington. It frequently happens in the case of veteran players that a change of uniform brings about a new life and Covey may turn out to be a winner in Washington.

COUNTY BOYS WORK DISCUSSION TOPIC

Summer Camp Being Considered, County Supt. Farthing States at Plum Creek Hi-Y Club Meeting

DISCUSSES SILAS WARNER

Speaker Uses Eliot's Story to Illustrate That Men Must Develop Along Three Lines

County Superintendent B. D. Farthing spoke before the Plum Creek Hi-Y club Tuesday at its regular meeting. He prefaced his talk by outlining plans that are under consideration for county boys' work the coming year under the direction of the State Y. M. C. A. in co-operation with various clubs and organizations within the county, namely Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. One of the principal features of that work is a proposed boys' camp this coming summer.

Mr. Farthing spoke upon the subject, "The Three Paths." He emphasized the fact that in order to be an all around man, one has to be developed mentally, physically and spiritually, that no one of these can be omitted by the individual, who attains to the best that is possible.

The speaker took as a basis for his argument, George Eliot's story of Silas Marner, showing how Silas Marner lost his faith in God, in his friends and in love. He showed the change brought about in Marner's life, through this loss; how he degenerated into a hard hearted, cold money loving miser, whose only ambition an ideal was the accumulation of gold; how he became a person of no use to himself or to his neighbors. Mr. Farthing using Silas as an example showing how one eventually becomes like one's ideal if he continually strives toward that ideal.

In the course of his remarks the speaker showed how Silas Marner was led back to his lost faith in God, friends and love and having regained his three fold faith became a respected and worthwhile citizen again.

Mr. Farthing's talk was thoroughly enjoyed by those members present and the sentiment of all was aptly expressed by one who said, "I feel as if we had got some where to-night."

Plans were laid for next Sunday at which time the club will have a part in the church services at Plum Creek, assisting the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Saunders, who will speak upon "Father and Son." Plans were also discussed for having other speakers before the club from among schoolmen, Kiwanians, Rotarians and professional men.

FILES $10,000 SUIT AGAINST I. & C. CO.

Margaret Gill, Administratrix of Estate of William Gill, Who Was Killed, Seeks Damages

Connersville, Ind., Dec. 27—Margaret Gill, administratrix of the estate of William Gill, who was killed in crossing accident a Martin's Stop on the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line, has filed suit for damages in the sum of $10,000 against the interurban company in the Fayette circuit court. The plaintiff in the action is the widow of the deceased.

Mr. Gill was riding in an automobile at the time of the accident. His machine was struck at the crossing by an eastbound car and carried some distance. Mr. Gill was killed instantly.

According to the complaint Mr. Gill was driving at a moderate rate of speed. The traction car crew is alleged to have operated the car recklessly, negligently and carelessly. Failure to sound a warning gong or bell as required by law is charged in the complaint. It is alleged that a warning signal was sounded when the traction car was within 50 or 60 feet of the crossing and that the driver of the automobile did not have time to stop or to cross the tracks before the car reached the crossing. No signal was given when the traction car was within 80 to 100 rods of the crossing as provided by law, it is alleged.

The complaint avers that the traction car was traveling at the rate of 40 miles an hour. It sets out the point that Mr. Gill had seen a west-

The Night After Christmas

'Twas the night after Christmas, and all through the flat, Every creature was wide-awake—barring the cat; The stockings were hung in a heap on a chair, Quite empty of candy St. Nick had put there.

The children were all doubled up in their beds, With pains in their tummies and aches in their heads.

Mamma heated water, while I, in my wrapper, Was walking the kid (who is not a kid-napper):

When out in the street there arose a great clatter, And I put down the kid to see what was the matter;

Rash out in the entry, threw the door open wide, And found an old gentleman standing outside.

I looked at him closely, and realized then

'Twas the doctor I'd sent for that morning at ten.

He was dressed in an ulster, to keep him from chills, And his pockets were bulging with boxes of pills.

He came to the nursery and opened his pack.

Full of fresh paragonie and strong ipecac;

Rhubarb and soda-mints, fine castor oil,

And pink sticking-plaster, rolled up in a coil.

The children all howled in a chorus of pain, And the kid lifted up his contralto again.

He felt all their pulses and looked at their tongues,

Took all their temperatures, sounded their lungs,

When he'd dosed all the children and silenced the kid,

He put back his medicine, down the stairs slid, Jumped into his cab, and said to a driver

(In excellent humor—he'd just made a "five"):

"In twelve hours behind my appointments, I fear,

But I wish it was Christmas each day in the year."

bound car pass the crossing about 6:40 o'clock in the morning, a few minutes before the accident occurred and that he had no way of knowing that the eastbound car had left the siding west of the crossing. Survivors listed in the suit are the widow and three children. The deceased was 50 years old.

PLANS MADE FOR STATE-WIDE MEET

Committee Representing all Denominations of Religion Now Arranging Details of Program

ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Aims of Conference is to Provide Plans for Program of Training For Children

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 27—Department of Public Instruction, December 19—Extensive plans are being made for a state-wide conference on Religious Education to be held at Indianapolis, Wednesday, January 14 and a committee representing all denominations is now arranging the details of the parley.

Several days ago, Dr. Henry Noble Sherwood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, called a group of men and women, representing each of the leading religious organizations of the state, into conference and proposed that a state conference on the matter of Religious Education be held at an early date. The group unanimously agreed that such a conference would result in much good and empowered Dr. Sherwood to appoint a committee to arrange for the parley.

Dr. Sherwood appointed the following men to assist him in arranging the meeting: T. E. Albertson, Secretary of the Institute of Religious Education; Rev. F. H. Garisk, pastor of St. John's Catholic Church; Rabbi M. M. Fenerlicht of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation; and Dr. C. M. Dinsmore, general superintendent of the Indiana Baptist State Convention.

Aims of the conference to be held next month, as set forth by the committee, are: "to provide plans for a program of religious training for children of Indiana in harmony with the principles of separation of church and state, giving freedom of religious instruction and mutual responsibility of the home and the church for the moral training of the youth."

The meeting will probably be held in the Claypool hotel and will be open to the public. There will be four principal sessions, a morning, afternoon and evening meeting and a noon luncheon. A number of nationally recognized authorities on Religious Training will be the speakers and scores of religious and educational leaders of the state will make short talks.

There will be no attempt to draft legislation, it merely being an effort to gather the view-points of each group represented in the state and to consider ways and means of Religious instruction for the youth which will be acceptable to all.

"The members of the committee favor religious education of some sort," said Dr. Sherwood, "and in order to provide a method of favorable to all we are calling a general conference open to the public for further consideration of the problem."

Further details of the program will be announced within a short time.

Origin of Familiar Words

Some of our words owe their present form to the mistakes of our forefathers. A beffry, which originally had nothing to do with a bell, is correctly a beffry, i. e., a watch tower. A certain kind of apple used to be known as a costardinger, and later on as a costermonger. Similarly, a grocer was originally an engrosser, or a dealer in great, while a butcher was a becher or tiller of goats.—London Mail

Good and Bad Luck

To balance "unlucky" superstitions there are many "lucky" ones. If, when dressing, one accidentally puts on a garment inside out, an unexpected gift will shortly arrive. To carry about a coin with a hole in it is to secure one's self against misfortune, and if swallows are permitted to build near a house, the owner need not trouble to take out a fire insurance policy, for fire will never attack a dwelling thus protected.
